1 any documents or published literature that suggests
2 there is richterite in Johnson & Johnson mines' talc?

3 A. Again, for the same answer.

4 MR. EWALD: Okay. So I don't know if
5 anyone on the phone wants to ask questions. If
6 not, I'll take a very short break to make sure I
7 haven't missed something. Otherwise, I'll pass
8 the witness.

9 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

10 MR. GARSON: No, I don't have any.

11 MR. EWALD: Let me take 5 minutes, look
12 over my notes, I think we're done.

13 (Recess from 3:42 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.)

14 Q. (By Mr. Ewald) If someone says that PLM
15 is not sensitive enough to find asbestos in cosmetic
16 talc, that would be a false statement; correct?

17 A. Yes and no. As long as you have the 18 analyst and you've got experience over time in 19 looking at it, but if -- to say you'll never find it
20 in PLM, it just depends on the experience and time
21 and individual doing it.

22 Q. But at least in your view, MAS's analysts
23 have found asbestos in Johnson & Johnson's cosmetic
24 talc using PLM without any kind of heavy liquid
25 separation; correct?

1 A. This is true. And after doing this work
2 now specifically on cosmetic talc for two years, it
3 would be my opinion that the evaluation of cosmetic
4 talc, in my mind now, three things need to be done.
5 Forget about XRD unless you're looking at the 6 tremolitic talc out of Korea.

7 I believe you need to do -- if you want to
8 fully characterize -- ISO PLM, Blount PLM, and TEM.
9 All three of those methods give you the best ability
10 to make a determination if asbestos is present or not 11 at these detection limits, and it has to be an 12 analyst doing the PLM that has experience in looking 13 at these types of materials, so a lot of years. But 14 I believe all three of those need to be done.

15 If you're a talc mine, you don't stop at 16 negative -- you don't stop at a negative. If you
17 were to do ISO PLM or R-93 PLM and you find asbestos,
18 you can stop. If you don't find asbestos by ISO PLM,
19 you need to do the Blount PLM. If you find it by 20 Blount PLM, you can stop. That has detectable
21 asbestiform, tremolite or anthophyllite series. And 22 if you don't there, then you do TEM. Those are the 23 three that need to be done. You can skip the XRD.

24 Q. See, you talked and it made me think of a
25 couple questions.
